THE ART OF

Nationally Respected Contemporary Artists

"Twiggs's art is intensely personal but never strident. Whether [depicting] the violence of a hurricane, the complexity of racial relations, the romance of southern rivers or the bonds of family, he interweaves his experiences into a coherent narrative."

*William Underwood Eiland,
Director, Georgia Museum of Art*

"In Twiggs's work, there is a treasure to be found."

The Charlotte Observer

"Twiggs's art seeks to re-establish the connections between intellectual expressiveness and everyday life"

*Frank Martin, Art Historian,
South Carolina State University*

Leo Twiggs's art has been shown in 75 one-man shows and exhibited at the Studio Museum in Harlem, the American Crafts Museum, the Mint Museum in Charlotte and other prestigious venues. He is the first artist to receive South Carolina's distinguished Verner Award.
